Keynote - James Fee, GISP

James Fee, a widely regarded leader in the field of geospatial and web-based mapping technologies, will be the Keynote Speaker at the Eighth SHRUG GIS Workshop in November! He is a regular columnist for Geoinformatics magazine, blogs about GIS at www.spatiallyadjusted.com, and has developed an online GIS community, Planet Geospatial.

Call for Presentations and Posters!

HAVE YOU SUBMITTED YOUR PRESENTATION and/or POSTER ABSTRACT YET? Presentations slots range from short individual sessions up to full panel discussion blocks, and cover beginner to expert topics, from government to private agencies. This is a great way to share GIS insights and applications in a relaxed, informal setting. So go ahead and submit your abstract or poster today!
