

Florida NAHMMA Chapter 2007 HHW/SQG Workshop
April 30 - May 4, 2007
Fort Walton Beach, Florida

The Florida Chapter of North American Hazardous Materials Management Association (NAHMMA) will be hosting the 2007 Household Hazardous Waste (HHW) and Small Quantity Generator (SQG) Workshop. This year's workshop will be full of excellent sessions, trainings, and tours that you have come to expect, but this year we'll have some new twists!

New Host

The Florida (NAHMMA) Chapter, formed at the May 2006 HHW/SQG workshop in Sarasota, will be hosting this year's conference. For more information about NAHMMA, please visit www.nahmma.org.

New Registration Procedure

This is the first year that there will be a charge for the workshop. It will be $150 for the first attendee from a county, and $50 for each additional attendee from that same county. To offset this cost, the FL NAHMMA Chapter is offering FREE registration for current NAHMMA members*. To become a member of NAHMMA simply visit www.nahmma.org and click on Membership Information, then New Member Application. Then enter your information and print out your invoice or pay with a credit card. If you aren't web savvy, then you can always fill out the attached application. With your national membership you automatically become a member of the Florida NAHMMA Chapter.

New Location

This is the first time that the workshop is being held in the Panhandle! A big thank you to Jim Reece and Okaloosa County for sponsoring the location. The workshop will be held at the Ramada Plaza Beach Resort. Make your reservations by April 8, 2007 and take advantage of the special Florida NAHMMA Chapter rate of $128/single or double room. For more information on the hotel visit www.ramadafwb.com.

So please plan to join us next year! Turn in your travel requests today and JOIN NAHMMA!

Sincerely,

Jim Reece, Chapter Liaison
